1	This course broadened my knowledge of systems and I have already applied my learning to my local context.
2	This course provided me a new lens towards approaching issues and problems within my organization.
3	This course was very relevant to my future professional development.
4	This course was extremely helpful in introducing various systems and organizational concepts that are relevant to education. This expanded my thinking in looking at the problems I face in my workplace, especially wicked problems.
5	The content was relevant and timely. It was easy to stay engaged with the course readings and discussions because the topics and content were so good.
6	Looking at different systems concepts was interesting.
7	Learning about systems theories provided a good backdrop and foundation for further work.
8	I really enjoyed this course and the diverse literature/theories it presented me.
9	I enjoyed learning about concepts that can be implemented in my current work place immediately.

1	This required the right amount of intellectual demand. This course was a good start to the program and well-paired with the other course this semester.
2	The readings and assignments were intellectually challenging. Each one had a purpose and worked toward the larger goals of the class.
3	The level of intellectual demand was appropriate for the course.
4	The course was challenging but not overwhelmingly so.
5	The course required the ability to think about the content and processes relevant to the problem of practice. It required analysis and synthesis of information and responses to critical questions regarding the readings.
6	Parts of the course were time consuming, but the content was not overly difficult.
7	I would like to see more rigor from the discussions.
8	At times the expectations of assignments may not have been very clear and left me, the student, guessing at what the instructor may be looking for in an assignment. I will say that the instructor was very helpful when I reached out, to clarify assignments that were not as straight forward in the materials provided in the classroom.

1	Tons of learning, always worth the effort
2	This course provided an excellent framework to start the EdD program. The effort matched the content and the amount that I learned
3	The difference in assignment structure from week to week, while engaging and creative, also added a certain amount of time spent in a learning curve understanding what the assignment itself entailed each week. Having a set familiar structure to assignments from week to week would be helpful in becoming familiar early on with what is expected, especially in a compressed 7-module course with limited time.
4	The amount of effort I exerted in the course is worth what I learned.
5	Question 5 is worded strangely. I spent more time on some things than I think I should have. Blogspot was a pain and buggy for formatting and such. I'm sure I wasted plenty of time trying to make things more presentable.
6	I've learned so much within 7 - 8 weeks, I'm almost afraid to ask... "what else is there to learn?"
7	I have put forth about 15 hours a week for each doctorate course. I think this is a reasonable amount given the rigor of the program.
8	Almost all material was relevant to what I need to be successful in the program. There were at times a few redundant assignments that seemed to be asking me to repeat myself from other previous assignments.

Response Rate:	58.33% (7 of 12)
1	The articles and material for the course were well-planned. Tasks were appropriate, but the number and variety of different tasks in the course required extra time spent to understand what needed to be done...which felt like time that could have been better utilized within the course itself. The instructors were very thorough in providing feedback, very responsive to questions, and supportive overall in assisting students in the course. Expectations for each assignment were also very clear and easy to follow.
2	Thank you!
3	Thank you so much! I really enjoyed the course and learned a lot! You both were encouraging, helpful, and VERY knowledgeable!
4	I really valued the amount of time you each took to grade assignments and personalize feedback.
5	I enjoyed learning in this class and look forward to the rest of the program.
6	I did struggle some with the design of the course. I know this is not the instructors fault, but I'm not sure how to give the feedback other than here. The learning module structure in Blackboard is clunky and difficult to navigate. It adds unnecessary clicks and essentially triples the navigational load of the user. I had to create my own spreadsheet of due dates for assignments and discussions because they were difficult to find in the course. There were lots of "due according to the dates in the course schedule" or "due on the last day of the module," but there's no indication when the modules begin and end. An announcement or a note on the course schedule that says modules begin on Mondays and end on Sundays would be very useful. Both instructors were wonderful, and I got so much out of the course. Top marks for instructors, medium marks for course design.
7	Fantastic course and great start to my experience with ASU. I look forward to more classes with this professor!
