1	The content in this course sets a solid foundational knowledge of systems understanding within an educational context. This foundation will be vital going forward into the action research and dissertation steps.
2	For one of my first classes in a doctoral program, I found this course engaging and valuable.

1	This course had a nice balance of intellectually challenging activities as well as more response-based activities that were more providing our thoughts and responding to our peers. I thought this approach did not make the course too overwhelming.
2	I felt that this was an acceptable amount of rigor.
3	Goals and objectives were lined out and easy to follow. Coursework load itself was challenging, but is expected of an abbreviated 7.5 week course. What I experienced is about what I expected of a doctoral level program.
4	Getting used to online school was an adjustment. I appreciate personalized feedback and gentle reminders with minimal deductions from total points as I learned the ropes.

| 1 | I liked the rigor. It definitely pushed me, but I love what I am learning.   |
| 2 | I felt agreeable in the amount of effort I produced.   |
| 3 | I feel like I am coming away from this course with more knowledge and input then I was going into it with so in that way it felt like it was definitely worth it. There were a few times where it would have been nice to have the workload more spread out, specifically during weeks where we had increased discussion board requirements like the jigsaw readings along with other, larger assignments. |

1	I would have liked instructors to actually participate in the discussions. I think it would have lead to richer conversations and better understanding.
2	I was a little confused why the course this semester had two instructors when the only outward interactions I observed with course postings, virtual office responses, emails, and grading was with Dr. Henriksen.
3	I received excellent feedback from the instructors in the course. Instructors were very willing to be available and support their students. It was very evident that they care about what they are teaching and about their students' success.
4	I feel that these instructors were good and overall very helpful in my education.
5	Dr. Henricksen is very approachable and helpful. I loved this class and I'm looking forward to taking additional courses with her.
6	At times the content was quite challenging but ultimately a worthwhile experience and introduction to the doctoral program!
